The difference between thinking and knowing is experience and, our guest has a wealth of experience to share with you. Parents, professionals, and self-advocates can learn from Shawn Smith’s personal experiences and professional observations of being undiagnosed with attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) until age 30. Dealing with his own challenges has given him unique insights into helping others with disabilities. Please join counselor, neurodiversity and parenting expert Shawn Smith of Don’t dis-my-ability™ for a candid conversation that is sure to generate a few laughs and tears.
