This University of Miami Autism Lecture Series session presents Dr. Schultz and his argument that current assessment approaches are antiquated and it is now possible to use novel computational approaches to address the pressing need for granular, scalable phenotyping methods that quantify social communication skills in autism.

FRIDAY
March 23, 2018
12:30pm

LOCATION
Flipse Conference Room
5665 Ponce de Leon Blvd.
Coral Gables, FL 33146
Room 502